WASHINGTON COACHES AND ASSISTANT COACHES

Christine Burkhart (1974-75)

The first head coach for intercollegiate women's basketball at UW, Burkhart had two years of Husky coaching experience prior to the NCAA sanctioning of women's basketball. In the first season of NCAA competition, Burkhart led the Huskies to an 11-11 record, including a 3-1 record and third-place finish at the NCWSA Area Playoffs, advancing to the Regional Playoffs where they didn't place.

Burkhart graduated from the UW in 1971, majoring in physical education. She also played two seasons for the club team at the UW, leading the team in scoring both seasons. By request of the United States Women's Basketball Olympic Committee, she attended the Developmental Training Camp for Women's Basketball in Wooster, Ohio, in the summer of 1970.

Kathie Neir (1975-79)

Neir was the second coach in the history of women's basketball and had the third longest stint as the UW coach. In four seasons at Washington, Neir compiled an 82-31 (.726) record. She led the Huskies to the playoffs in her first three seasons. In 1976, they competed in the NCWSA Area Playoffs, but did not place. The following season, they reached the Regional Playoffs after a 22-4 regular season, placing third with a 3-2 record. In 1978 the Huskies finished 26-5 and won the NWBL Tournament and later finished fourth at the AIAW Western Sectionals.

Pat Dobratz (1979-80)

Dobratz was at the helm for only one season, as an interim coach, after serving the previous season as an assistant coach. In her lone year as an interim coach, the Huskies broke even at 14-14 and advanced to the regional playoffs. The administration had decided prior to '79-80 season to conduct a national search to replace the departed coach, Kathie Neir.

Before her stint at UW, Dobratz was a graduate teaching assistant as well as an assistant coach under Judy Akers at Kansas State. She was also an outstanding collegiate athlete at South Dakota State, lettering nine times. She played on state championship teams in volleyball, tennis, and basketball, and was named South Dakota Female Athlete of the Year in 1974.

Sue Kruszewski (1980-83)

Kruszewski compiled a 50-34 (.595) record during three seasons with the Huskies. Following the 1981 season, she was nominated, and became one of the final 20 contenders for the Stayfree Coach of the Year, an annual award presented to the nation's outstanding women's basketball coach in the large college category.

She came to Washington with 20 years of coaching experience. Kruszewski built from scratch the women's basketball program at her alma mater, Detroit, in 1977. She constructed an 18-3 record in her first year as head coach (1977-78), then directed the Lady Titans to a remarkable 27-4 finish the following year. Detroit earned the state title and was AIAW Midwest Regional runnerup in postseason play. The Titans qualified for postseason play for the second straight season in 1979-80, compiling a 25-8 record and ranking among the nation's top 20 for much of the season. Following that season she was nominated for National Coach of the Year.

Joyce Sake (1983-85)

Sake completed two seasons of Husky basketball with a 43-10 (.811) record, which included a 26-2 record her second year. She directed the Huskies to the school's first-ever appearance in the NCAA tournament in 1985, where UCLA beat the Huskies in the first round, 72-68. The 1985 season featured 21 consecutive victories. During her first season, 1983-84, the Huskies upset High Country Athletic Conference champion Brigham Young (92-79), NorPac runnerup Oregon State (64-62) and Mountain West Athletic Conference runnerup Eastern Washington (77-68).

Before her stint at Washington, Sake coached nine years at Grossmont College in San Diego, California. There, she directed the Griffins to four conference titles, and developed an overall community college coaching record of 151-52 (.744). She was also named the South Coast Conference Coach of the Year in 1979. She is the co-founder of the San Diego Summer Olympics Development League.

Chris Gobrecht (1985-96)

Gobrecht put Washington women's basketball on the map. In 11 years, Gobrecht created a product that the city of Seattle embraced. It became almost a love affair with the Huskies and figures show that year in and year out, Washington women's basketball was the most attended women's collegiate program in a major city.

Beginning with her first season, 1985-86, she guided the Huskies to their second straight NCAA tournament appearance. An NCAA bid was almost mandated with every season after awhile, and the Huskies went on to nine tournaments in 11 seasons, advancing to four regionals during that span.

Each team was a winner. In 10 of the 11 seasons the Huskies had 17 or more wins. Her teams won two Pac-10 championships, most recently sharing the 1990 title with Stanford. The first Pac-10 title came in 1988. But if the Huskies weren't at the top of the Pac-10, they weren't far behind, finishing runner-up in the conference four times (in 1987, 1989, 1991, and 1995).

Gobrecht posted a lot of firsts. She was the first women's basketball coach to lead the Huskies for five consecutive seasons, to win 100 games, and to reach the 300-win milestone in her career. She also became the winningest coach at Washington in her fourth season by defeating Oregon, 71-59, January 19, 1989. Coincidentally, she reached her 300-win plateau against Oregon in 1995.

Gobrecht was visible on the international scene, too. In the summer of 1990, she served as assistant coach for one of the USA Basketball Select teams that traveled to Czechoslovakia and Italy. And in the summer of 1989, she coachedthe silver medal-winning East Team at the U.S. Olympic Festival.

Chris Gobrecht built the fortress that is now home of a nationally recognized program. Washington women's basketball arrived, so to speak, over a decade ago, and unlike many programs, has stayed.

June Daugherty (1996-07)

June Daugherty spent 11 seasons at the helm of the Washington women's basketball program, compiling a record of 191-139 (.579) and a 113-85 (.571) mark in Pac-10 play. She guided the Huskies to six NCAA Tournament appearances including a trip to the NCAA Elite Eight (2001) and three in her last five years (2003, '06, '07).

During that same 2000-01 season, the Huskies won a share of the Pac-10 title, and finished in a tie for second the following two years.

Daugherty was one of 25 finalists for the 2003 Naismith Coach of the Year Award, a year that saw the Huskies go 22-8 record and go to the NCAA Tournament.

In addition to six NCAA appearances, the Huskies also made three trips to the postseason WNIT during her tenure. Daugherty coached the only Husky to ever win a Pac-10 Player of the Year honor in Giuliana Mendiola and guided the careers of five Kodak District VIII All-Americans: Mendiola, Loree Payne, Megan Franza, Jamie Redd and Amber Hall.

In addition to the success her players enjoyed on the court, 16 Daugherty-coached players combined to earn 55 selections to the Pac-10 All-Academic Team (first, second and honorable mention).

Tia Jackson (2007-11)

Tia Jackson posted a 45-75 (.375) record in four seasons at UW. During her third season, Jackson led the school over Portland in the first round of the WBI. In her second year, her group of young Huskies beat NCAA Tournament team Purdue on a buzzer-beater, and upset ninth-ranked California in the last game of the regular season.

Jackson completed seasons as an assistant coach at VCU, Stanford, UCLA and Duke before becoming a head coach at Washington. She stood out as an excellent recruiter, and proved it at Washington. Jackson recruited three nationally-ranked prospects her first season.

Kevin McGuff (2011-13)

Kevin McGuff spent two seasons as the Huskies head coach. During his tenure he led the Dawgs to a 41-26 record. McGuff immediately found success in Seattle, taking the Huskies to the postseason for the first time since 2009-10 and guiding UW to its first 20-win season since 2002-03.

Under McGuff's watch, Jazmine Davis was named the Pac-12 Freshman of the Year, becoming the first Husky to earn that honor in 24 years.

Mike Neighbors (2013-17)

Mike Neighbors spent four seasons as the head coach of the University of Washington women's basketball team and sixth overall with the Huskies. He was promoted to head coach on April 21, 2013 after previously working as the top assistant coach for two seasons.

In four years at the helm, Neighbors has guided Washington to four consecutive 20-plus win seasons for the first time since 1987-1991, amassing a 98-41 record, including three trips to the NCAA Tournament, punctuated by a historic run to the Final Four in 2015-16. The Huskies advanced to the semifinals of the Pac-12 Tournament and entered the NCAA's as a No. 7 seed, defeating No. 10-seed Pennsylvania, No. 2 Maryland, No. 3 Kentucky and No. 4 Stanford to reach the Final Four.

A 2017 Werner Ladder Naismith Women's College Coach of the Year National Semifinalist, Neighbors guided Washington to 29 wins in 2016-17, the most in program history while also leading the Huskies to consecutive Sweet 16 appearances for the first time in program history.

Jody Wynn (2017-21)

Jody Wynn completed her fourth season as the Head Women's Basketball Coach at the University of Washington in 2021. Under Wynn's direction, the Huskies posted an overall record of 38-75 at UW and an overall record of 175-194 in 12 seasons as a head coach. Wynn led the Huskies to an impressive run through the 2019 Pac-12 Tournament, upsetting Utah and No. 11-ranked Oregon State to become just the second No. 11 seed to reach the semifinals. In addition, UW won two Pac-12 tournament games for just the second time in program history.

Tina Langley (2021-)

Tina Langley was named the 12th head coach of the Washington women's basketball program on April 5, 2021, and will enter her fifth season at the program's helm in 2025-26. Since her arrival, Langley has steered Washington back into the national spotlight and demonstrated her tact as a transformational leader. Unsurprisingly, her commitment to building an elite, values-based program has propelled historic change on Montlake and set a standard of excellence for the future.

Langley, who enters her 11th season as a head coach, has seen success at each of her stops and made incredible turnarounds her calling card. Inheriting a Washington team ranked last in the Pac-12, she wasted no time implementing a system that improved the Husky win total from 7 to 19 games during the 2022-23 season. The 12-game swing was the second-best improvement in program history. Two years later, during the 2024-25 season, Langley led Washington to the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2017. Given the program's continued upward trajectory, ESPN included the Huskies in its 2025-26 Top 25 for the first time since 2016.

The confidence stems from an impressive debut for the Huskies in the Big Ten, where they led the league in field goal percentage (49.5%), three-point percentage (40.1%), and free throw percentage (83.6%) during conference play. Washington won three of its first four Big Ten games, before closing the season with a five-game winning streak — including the first conference tournament win for Langley in a 79-65 victory over Minnesota at the Gainbridge Fieldhouse. The Huskies were dominant on the offensive and defensive ends of the floor, recording 138 blocks — the second-most in program history — while scoring the most points since 2016-17 (2,379). Washington improved its field goal percentage for a third straight year, tying for seventh in the country with a 48% mark from the floor.

ALASKA AIRLINES ARENA

Alaska Airlines Arena at Hec Edmundson Pavilion is the primary home for the Husky women's basketball team. The 2000-01 season featured the re-opening of the Arena after a major, 16-month long, top-to-bottom overhaul.

Built in 1927, the Pavilion was dedicated on December 27 of that year, with the Husky men's team defeating Illinois, 34–23, in the inaugural game.

Originally known as the University of Washington Pavilion, the building was dedicated to the Huskies' long-time basketball and track mentor, Clarence. S. "Hec" Edmundson, on Jan. 16, 1948. Additionally, the Pavilion provided a venue for the Huskies' indoor track and field season and was used for conditioning purposes for all Washington athletes.

The Husky women outgrew the Hec Edmundson Pavilion Addition (600-seat capacity) more than 35 seasons ago, and established a women's basketball school attendance record of 3,832 in its NCAA first-round game against UCLA in Hec Edmundson Pavilion in 1985. That record was eclipsed in 1988 when the Husky women welcomed its first sellout crowd of 7,882 to Hec Edmundson for the NCAA second-round game against New Mexico State on March 19, 1988.

Washington established a new women's basketball school attendance record when 8,408 filled the building for the Huskies' 111-77 win over UCLA on Feb. 1, 2003. The 2003 season also saw the Huskies welcome back-to-back home crowds of over 8,000 for the first time in school history. During that year, the women teamed with the men to set a combined attendance record at Hec Edmundson Pavilion.

Hec Edmundson Pavilion cost more than $600,000 to build, the money being raised as a bond issue and an appropriation from the state legislature. Numerous improvements have been made to upgrade and modernize the facility prior to the recent, major renovation. The most recent was a project to renovate the concourse areas, including the installation of carpeting and banners. Chair-back seats were added on three sides of the court and a press area was created along the north sideline in 1991.

Seating capacity fluctuated over the years. With an original capacity of 9,600, the seating was increased in 1947 with the addition of bleachers. In 1970, that capacity was reduced again to 9,400 with the installation of padded theater seats. After spending nearly three decades with a capacity of 7,900, the new Alaska Airlines Arena now holds 10,000.

The UW single-game collegiate attendance record was set when 12,242 fans saw the UW men's team capture the 1951 Northern Division title over rival Washington State. The overall attendance record is 12,961 set by the crowd for the semi-finals of the 1957 state high school basketball tournament. When it was reconfigured in 1985 to a capacity of 8,000, the largest women's crowd was the 8,170 for UW's NCAA second-round win over DePaul in March of 1990.

Washington women's basketball welcomed its first sellout crowd to Alaska Airlines Arena on Jan. 27, 2017 when 10,000 fans watched Washington lose narrowly to Stanford. The 2016-17 season saw a program-record five Top-25 crowds at Alaska Airlines Arena including that sellout with 8,059 fans packing the arena for the Huskies' NCAA First Round opener against Montana State on Mar. 18, 2017.

The Huskies garnered another sellout crowd for its Jan. 18, 2025 meeting with Purdue, when 10,010 fans were on hand to retire Kelsey Plum's iconic No. 10 jersey from the Alaska Airlines Arena rafters. Later that season, another 7,913 welcomed No. 6 USC to Seattle on Feb. 16, 2025 — marking the first time the Huskies held crowds of over 6,000 fans since 2017.

Double-Doubles Summary

Margaret Nielsen established her place in Washington history on December 16, 1976, when she recorded the Huskies' first recorded double-double, pouring in 19 points and pulling down 15 rebounds in a 60-58 victory at Boise State.

Amber Hall's 48 career double-doubles ranks first all-time at Washington and may never be eclipsed, though Chantel Osahor (2014-17) made a run with 42. Carlin McClary (1988-91) is third on the list with 30 career double-doubles.

Triple-Doubles Summary

Nielson and Osahor are the lone players in program history with a triple-double. Nielson recorded the first triple-double in program history at WSU (15 pts, 20 reb, 10 ast) on 3/4/78. Osahor added the second one, picking up a triple-double vs. Idaho (11pts,
